TEN CENTS PER WEEK

REPUBLICANS OF FIRST DISTRICT AT PALMER HOUSE

Committee is Called to Consider Nomination For Congressman.

Large Representation of Counties Present.

FIRST APPELLATE DISTRICT.

Republicans of the first congressional district will not nominate a candidate for congress this fall in opposition to Ollie James. This was decided this afternoon at a meeting of the committee, which met at the Palmer house. It was the consensus of opinion not to nominate a candidate for congress, but to act with the remaining five counties in the appellate district and nominate a candidate for the appellate court.

Considerable discussion preceded the making of the vote. The majority favored the plan of not nominating a candidate this fall and Mr. Hurey made the motion that a candidate be not nominated. Mr. Blackburn of Ford county, seconded the motion and the question of nominating a candidate was postponed until the meeting of the appellate committee. The substitute motion was lost by a vote of 10 to 2. The original motion was carried by the vote of 10 to 2.

Hon. J. C. Spight, of Mayfield, presided and J. S. Taylor was elected permanent secretary. All the counties were represented excepting Carlisle county. Those present were: George Hurey, Hickman; A. C. Carman, Graves county; A. Downes, Callaway county; Dr. C. B. Lyon, Lyon county; Polly Headless of Patton; E. E. Bell, of McCracken county; Thos. Davis, of Livingston county; U. A. Cope, of Marshall county. Proxies were held by E. M. Fisher, for Hurey; Lamb, of Caldwell county; Walter Blackburn, for H. Haynes, of Crittenden county; O. H. Starks, for John Tooke, of Trigg county; J. S. Taylor held the proxy for Tuckett.

The meeting of the appellate committee will be held next Tuesday at a location selected by the chairman. It is probable that it will be Princeton although Paducah may be selected.

Timmons Infant.

The six-week-old baby girl of Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Timmons, of 321 Clark street, died this morning at 2 o'clock. The burial will take place tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock at Oak Grove cemetery. The Rev. M. E. Dodd will officiate.

Rain in the County.

Part of the county was favored with a heavy rain last night although in Paducah the rain was not sufficient to settle the dust well. In the vicinity of Florence station the downpour was the heaviest, but it did not cover a wide area. The rain was worth a fortune to the farmers of the section as all of the crops need rain to develop them properly.

Captain Vanduyke.

Paris, Tenn., Sept. 2.—Captain William H. Vanduyke, a prominent Confederate veteran, was killed yesterday by a southbound train, No. 104, of the Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis railroad from Paducah en route to Memphis. He was struck by the engine and was knocked about 40 feet. He was 56 years old. It is believed that he started across the track to the mail box when he was struck by the approaching train.

Little Hope of Recovery.

The condition of the unknown man found at Kevil unconscious was serious today at Delverdale hospital, and not much hope is entertained for his recovery. He was brought to Paducah late yesterday afternoon by Dr. H. L. Bradley and was placed in Riverside hospital. He wore a button of the Knights of Columbus, and the local order had him cured for. He has not revived sufficiently to give his name or to account for himself.

Large Crowd Out.

A large crowd is out this afternoon to see the double-header between Paducah and Vincennes. At the end of the second inning of the first game the score was 1 to 0 in favor of Paducah.

Denver, Sept. 2.—The national encampment of Spanish war veterans selected Oklahoma City as the place of its next encampment.

Brave Engineer Attacks Bandit Bare-Handed, Wrests Pistol From Him and Shoots Him Dead on Spot

Posse Searching Mountains of Colorado For Remainder of Band Whose Attempt to Hold-up Train Failed.

Colorado Springs, Col., Sept. 2.—The body of a bandit, who was slain by Engineer Frank Stewart, when three train robbers attempted to hold up a Colorado Midland train, No. 3, near Divide, at midnight, was taken to Leadville today. Poses are now searching the surrounding country in an effort to capture the two other members of the gang. In the conflict, Stewart was shot in the leg, and his condition is serious, from loss of blood.

The train was flagged by one of the bandits, who pointed to a big boulder on the track, indicating the possibility of danger. As the train came to a standstill, the other robbers boarded the train. One climbed over the tender and covered Stewart and Fireman Bachman. They were compelled to march back to the express car, which conveyed a consignment of several thousand dollars, and Stewart was ordered to call on the messenger to open the door. As he complied, Stewart gamely threw himself at the gang. He struck one of the bandits down and wrested his revolver from him and shot the man, killing him instantly. The others then fled.

Stewart downed one bandit when Fireman Bachman dodged under the car as if to escape, attracting the attention of all three. Despite his wound, Stewart was carried to his cab and ran his train four miles, bringing it here.

"PUNKIN" JONES IS INVITED TO JOIN

PITCHERS ARE WORKING IN FIELDS AS THERE ARE ONLY TEN MEN.

Two games with Vincennes are on the program of the Indians this afternoon at League park. The first game was called at 2 o'clock with Guy Woodring on the slab for Paducah, and opposed by Howe, of the Allies. Jesse Gwin will work for the warriors in the second game, with Rock behind the bat in both games. Carl Johnson was selected by Manager Nalra for the second game with Glenn doing the back stop work.

With the desertion of Angermeyer and the release given Pat Ryan, the number of Indians has dwindled down to ten men. This will make it necessary to use two pitchers in the outfield. "Rube" Floyd, who pulled off some sensational catches in the field, will work in left field today. Manager Dave Anderson today wired to Ernie Jones, known to fans as "Punkin" Jones, to join the Paducah team tomorrow. Jones until this week was the regular outfielder with Vincennes, and was a good hitter, but was given his release. Manager Anderson is after a third baseman for the remainder of the season, as Dummy Payne wants to take his regular turn in the box.

Angermeyer will be black-listed and prevented from playing league ball according to the local directors for jumping his contract. In explaining their side one director said: "We agreed to leave it to President Goodell about paying Angermeyer his salary for the four days. When the facts were stated President Goodell sided with us that we did not owe the money."

Overtown will be in uniform this afternoon but will not be able to play before Saturday or Sunday. To help out it is probable that Bobby Mercer will be used in the outfield.

For the first time since their installation the new custom house steps lights were turned on last night and burned until 11 o'clock. This custom will be practiced every night. The paving of the property to the building also gives a more impressive appearance to the custom house.

LABOR DAY PLANS ARE COMPLETED; MARSHAL CHOSEN

John C. Revis, of Carpenters Union, Will Lead The Parade.

No Goddess of Labor in the Line.

CANDIDATES WILL ALL RIDE.

Final details for the celebration of Labor day were completed last night by the committee having the arrangements in charge. Now all is ready for the celebration from the big parade to the celebration at Wallace park. A promise has been exacted from the weather man that Monday will be a clear day.

This year there will be no Goddess of Labor in the parade. Miss Lurline Wilkerson, who was elected last year as the candidate of the Typographical union, has removed to Texas with her parents, and will be unable to participate this year. A letter was received from her expressing regrets that she would be unable to reach Paducah for the Labor day parade. As a solution the committee decided not to appoint a substitute Goddess of Labor. The two candidates will be in the parade, Miss Cora Langston, the candidate of the house carpenters, will be in a carriage with four girls, while Miss Nell Kethley, the candidate of the shipcarpenters, will be seated in another carriage with four girls.

John C. Revis, of the house carpenters union, was elected marshal of the parade last night. He will appoint a corps of assistants to see that the parade moves promptly. The parade will form at Fourth and Kentucky avenue and will move east to First street, north to Broadway, and west to Ninth street. North on Ninth street to Jefferson street, where the parade will disband and the union men and their friends will go to Wallace park to spend the remainder of the day. The fire department and the police force will be in the parade and all of the local unions.

THE TUBERCULOSIS EXHIBIT CANNOT BE BROUGHT HERE.

The result of the graded county schools will be watched with much interest as several vicinities in the county may try graded schools next year.

Missourians Yell For Bryan When Roosevelt Declines to Leave His Bed at Their Demands for Speech

Dolliver Tells Him at Omaha LaFollette Will Carry Wisconsin—Is Guest of Nebraska City Club.

Omaha, Sept. 2.—Colonel Roosevelt arrived here at 7 o'clock this morning and is the guest of the Omaha club. For the first time on his trip, the colonel refused to leave his bed and address a crowd at St. Joseph, Mo., when the train reached there at midnight. Eight hundred disappointed people surrounded the car side and shouted "How about Bryan?" to show their dissatisfaction.

Senator Dolliver, of Iowa, joined Hurkett, of Nebraska; Victor Rosewater and Governor Schallenberger in welcoming Roosevelt. Dolliver is returning from Wisconsin. He told the colonel Senator La Follette is certain of re-election. Mr. Roosevelt said: "In traveling in Europe last spring one thing which especially struck me was the fact that the two feasts which made the deepest impression abroad were the cruise of the battle fleet around the world and the digging of the Panama canal."

"These were the two feasts to be credited to the American people during the past decade which had most profoundly and favorably affected foreign judgment of America during that time."

"Such judgment depends not in the least upon what people may say, but on what they actually do—upon their willingness to meet responsibilities and the success of their efforts to meet them."

"Now, there is no use of a nation claiming to be a great nation unless it is prepared to play a great part. A nation such as ours cannot possibly play a great part in international affairs, cannot expect to be treated as a weight in either the Atlantic or the Pacific or to have its voice as to the Monroe doctrine or the management of the Panama canal heeded unless it has a strong and thoroughly efficient navy. Within the last decade the American navy has been about trebled in strength and much more than trebled in efficiency, due to its extraordinary progress in marksmanship and maneuvering."

COAL PRICES ARE GOING SKYWARD

THIS IS THE PROSPECT IN LOUISVILLE AND MEMPHIS, NOT HERE.

Memphis and Louisville expect a coal famine with higher prices, but Paducah dealers informed a reporter for the Evening Sun that no increase is anticipated here.

A comparative small supply of coal is on hand; shortage staring them in the face; two of the most important coal fields tied up by strikes, and the output of the greater part of the Alabama mines being shipped off to the coast, cause Memphis dealers to see the serious side of the situation.

There is a tie-up in the yards of the Louisville and Nashville railroad at Guthrie, Ky., where it is claimed that the congestion of coal trains has become so great that serious inconvenience from this feature alone will result.

The Louisville and Nashville railroad handles fully 75 per cent of the coal into Memphis. Another menace is the fact that the strike in the Illinois fields has driven St. Louis, Chicago and other big cities to look elsewhere for their supply. The Kentucky fields are the nearest to these cities and the mining companies are being flooded with orders from Chicago and St. Louis alone.

IN ILLINOIS.
Springfield, Ill., Sept. 2.—The auditor today issued a call for the condition of state banks at the opening of business September 2nd.

BATTERED FACE WITH A HAMMER

Battered over the head with a hammer, Lee Mansfield is at Riverside hospital suffering with wounds alleged to have been made by Tony Iseman, a wagon yard proprietor. Iseman is out on bond on the charge of malicious assault, while Mansfield is charged with breach of peace. The trouble occurred yesterday afternoon at Iseman's wagon yard, Second and Washington streets.

Mansfield worked at the stable and Iseman claims that Mansfield cursed him. He struck Mansfield with his fist and thought it was all over until he says Mansfield attacked him with a board. Iseman has scratches and bruises on his body. He seized a hammer and battered Mansfield over the head. Mansfield's injuries are not considered serious.

The trial of the case was continued in police court this morning until September 6.

Mr. Gillette is a justice of the peace and formerly was county attorney of Cherokee county. It is believed that it was through an enemy gained through his office as prosecutor that the double assassination was attempted.

Socialists Would Assess Fines Against Owners of Plants.

Copenhagen, Sept. 2.—The international socialist congress at plenary sitting adopted a resolution demanding the establishment of a system of universal and compulsory laws against unemployment, the cost of which is to be borne by the owners of the means of production.

Among other things, the resolution sets forth that the condition of unemployment was inseparable from the present capitalistic mode of production, and that as long as capitalism held sway only palliative measures were possible of success.

The session was noisy throughout. The resolution on unemployment occupied the entire day and was carried, despite the refusal of the American, French and British delegates to vote.

ROCK ISLAND MAN TELLS COMMISSION.

F. O. Melcher Says Million and Half Increase Was Effected Altogether.

Chicago, Sept. 2.—F. O. Melcher, second vice-president of the Rock Island system, questioned by W. F. Dickinson, attorney for the road, said at the interstate commerce rate hearing that the estimate of wage increases to which he testified was substantially correct. From 1906 to 1910, he said, the increase was $1,451,800, as based on an estimate of the increases granted organized labor. This does not include such advances as have been made to the clerical force.

The improvements of roadbed, the witness declared, were demanded by the public and constituted a serious item of expense. He cited a report of the board of railway commissioners of Iowa "that not enough money is set apart by the railroads for improving road beds."

Rain that placed the diamond in excellent shape prevented a crowd reuniting the ball park yesterday afternoon, and the game between the Indians and Vincennes was postponed. The game will be played off this afternoon with a double-header. A few fans only were present. Manager Anderson called off the game at 3:30 o'clock because of the rain, although the diamond was in good shape. Groups of fans waited down town until 3 o'clock, but thought there was no hope of a game and remained in the city. A large crowd went out this afternoon to see the sport of two games.

Luck With McLeansboro.

McLeansboro, Ill., Sept. 2.—McLeansboro took the first game of the series yesterday from Clarksville by a score of 2 to 1. The tail-enders were bitter rivals and fought hard to get the game. Priest was in the box for the visitors, and pitched good ball, but when the McLeansboro batters got after him Bailey was sent to his rescue. Kraft was in splendid form and allowed only three hits.

Angermeyer Leaves.

Louis Angermeyer, star left fielder and formerly manager of the Indians, jumped his contract last night and left early this morning for his home in Louisville, where he will remain for the remainder of the season. Angermeyer jumped the team as a result of trouble that has been brewing for several days over financial matters. The real cause of his jumping was the refusal of the directors to pay him four days' salary. Angermeyer claimed that other players had received their salary while sick or off duty, and that he was entitled to the same consideration. The directors claim that Angermeyer asked for the time off himself, and that President Gosnell aided with them in refusing the salary.

As a result of the dispute Angermeyer left. He was one of the most popular members of the team in the city, and his many friends regret to see him leave right when the club was winning. Any was a clever outfielder and led the league in fielding and was second of the local batters. While not a slugger, his ability was in working the pitchers and he usually got on base somehow. He has received one tryout with the Louisville American association team, and for next season has a splendid offer from the San Antonio team in the Texas league.

As manager Any was handicapped by a crippled team much of the time, but he retained his popularity with the fans. Before he left Angermeyer said: "Just tell the fans that I like Paducah and the people here, and I regret to leave the city, but I think I have not been treated fairly. When I resigned as manager they reduced my salary to the former figures, but that was no right. It is the refusal to pay me for the four days I was off. I was manager of the team and I asked repeatedly for my release, but it has been refused. I feel like I can not stay here and play ball."

FIRST RULE OF HEALTH.

is—"Keep the bowels active." The easiest, most effective way is to take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. These little sugar coated tablets are gentle yet firm, never harsh, painful or gripping. The olive oil in them is soothing and healing. Dr. Edwards spent fifteen years in the preparation of this remedy for bowel and liver complaints.

It is the one laxative that does all that Calomel does, with none of Calomel's bad after effects.

Try Olive Tablets next time you need a laxative or a liver tonic. At all drug stores, 10 and 25 cents. In vest pocket packages. The Olive Tablet Co., Portsmouth, Ohio.

and for this reason I am going to leave. So say good-bye to the fans for me."

Dope.

Frank Overton may be aptly termed the "Candy Kid." In doing the backstop work for the Indians little Overton is the real candy, while he still has a stronger claim to the title. During the winter months when not playing ball Overton is a candy maker in Louisville.

Vincennes has a crippled team, and according to the Vincennes management the Indians should not crow too loud if the entire series is lost here. Most of the Vincennes pitchers are to the bad, while the sick and injured list is something that has handicapped the team.

Umpire O'Brien, the latest addition to President Gosnell's staff and now looking after the Vincennes-Hopkinsville series, will have little trouble with the players in the Kitley when it spreads over the circuit that he was at one time a hero in the fight line and that he has figured in more than one ring engagement. When "Umps" appeared in the corner of Glenn Coakley at Lakewood last night clad in a sleeveless sweater and displaying a beautiful pair of muscular arms, more than one player in the audience said to himself, "No argument with that fellow for me." It was thought in Monday's game when "Umps" faced the big members of the Hopkinsville team without a display of fear that there was something behind that pugnacious look of his that appeared like business and this was proven last night when O'Brien admitted he had had the gloves on more than once.—Vincennes Capital.

Will Play Roslington.

The marine way baseball team will play the Roslington team at Roslington next Sunday. Switzer and Pearson will be the battery for the marine inds, and an attempt will be made to shut out the country lads.

NUEVA VISCAYA HAS AN UPRISING

HAS AN ATTACK OF CENTRAL AMERICANITIS.

Put a Filipino Through the Fatal
Third Degree and Was Convicted of Homicide.

HE HAD BEEN SENT TO JAIL

Manila, Sept. 2.—An uprising against the government is reported in the province of Nueva Viscaya. A constabulary force is hurrying to the scene and a battle is expected hourly. The rebel movement is headed by Simeon Mandac, former governor of Ilocos Norte, who has long been a fugitive from justice.

Mandac occupies Solano, a town of about 6,000 inhabitants north-west of the center of Nueva Viscaya and about five miles north of Hagonbong. The telegraph wires north of Hagonbong have been cut, and it is impossible to learn the number of Mandac's followers. It is doubted, however, that the rising is serious.

Colonel Taylor, at the head of the constabulary at Hagonbong, is preparing for an attack and the constabulary forces from other points are moving towards Solano now with the purpose of surrounding the outlaws and making certain their capture or death. Government reinforcements were available if they should prove to be needed.

Word of the trouble has reached Manila. Mandac, while governor, subjected a prisoner to a "third degree" examination of such severity that the man died. The governor was convicted of homicide and sentenced to 14 years' imprisonment. He appealed from the verdict of the court and while the appeal was pending, jumped his bond and had been missing for several months. It was thought that he had escaped abroad until today, when an official dispatch announced that he had turned up at the head of a band of insurgents.

Nueva Viscaya is the central province of Luzon and Hagonbong is its capital.

Washington Surprised.

Washington, Sept. 2.—The reported disturbance in the province of Nueva Viscaya comes as a surprise to the officials of the bureau of insular affairs and the other officers of the war department. No intimation has reached Washington of any general discontent in this wild, sparsely settled province, and it is believed here that it was a surprise, likewise to the officials in the Philippines.

ROOSEVELT SPEECH

For a Big Navy.

So far from this increase in naval strength representing on our part either a menace of aggression to weaker nations or a menace of war to stronger nations, it has told most powerfully for peace. Everywhere in Europe the cruise of the battle fleet around the world was accepted not only as an extraordinary feat reflecting the highest honor upon our navy, but as one of the movements which tended markedly to promote peaceful stability in international relations.

No nation regarded the cruise as fraught with any menace of hostility to itself, and yet every nation accepted it as a proof that we were not only desirous ourselves to keep the peace, but able to prevent the peace being broken at our expense. No cruise in any way approaching it has ever been made by any fleet of any other power, and the best naval opinion abroad had been that no such feat was possible—that is, that no such cruise as that we actually made could be undertaken by a fleet of such size without innumerable breakdowns and accidents.

The success of the cruise, performed as it was without a single accident, immeasurably raised the prestige not only of our fleet, but of our nation, and was a distinct help to the cause of international peace.

Success of Canal.

As regards the Panama canal, I really think that outside nations have a juster idea than our own people of the magnitude and success of the work. I wish our people realized what is being done on the isthmus. If a man of intelligence who had never left this country asked me whether I would advise him to make a short trip to Europe or a trip to the Panama canal I would without hesitation advise him to go to the Panama canal. He would there see in operation the completing of one of the great feats of modern times.

Colonel Goethals and the men working under him are rendering a service to this country which can only be paralleled in our past history by some of the services rendered in certain wars.

Six years ago last spring the American government took possession of the isthmus. The first two years were devoted to the sanitation of the isthmus, to assembling the plant and working force and providing quarters, food and water supplies. In all these points the success was extraordinary. From one of the plague spots of the globe, one of the most unhealthy regions in the entire world, the isthmus has been turned into a singularly healthy place of abode, where the death rate is small and where hundreds of children are now being raised under as favorable conditions as in most parts of the United States.

The quarters, food and water supply are excellent and the plant the best ever gathered for such a purpose. Active excavation on a large scale did not begin until January, 1907. Three years and a half have gone by since then, and three-fifths of the total excavation has already been accomplished. The amount taken out has passed anything which previous experience warranted us in believing to be possible.

In 1908 and 1909 the monthly average of rock and earth removed was 3,000,000 cubic yards notwithstanding the fact that nine months of each year constituted a season of very heavy rainfall. There remain to be excavated only about 60,000,000 cubic yards.

If we could keep up the past average of excavation this should be done in twenty months, but it is impossible to maintain such a ratio as the depth increases, for the output necessarily diminishes as the field of operation narrows. Still, it is certain that such a rate can be maintained as will enable the workers to finish the excavation considerably in advance of the date fixed for opening the canal, Jan. 1, 1915. Indeed, I shall be surprised if the canal cannot be opened six months or even a year in advance of the time set.

The work has two great features—the Culabra cut, which I have been considering, and the great dam at Gatun. The latter is to imprison the waters of the Chagres and other streams into a lake with an area of 164 square miles. This work is advancing steadily and just as successfully as the work on the Culabra cut.

The water which is ultimately to fill the lock is now flowing through the concrete spillway in the center of the dam, the Chagres having been diverted from its bed and placed under complete control. The construction of the dam has advanced sufficiently to convince the engineers in charge of the work of its absolute stability and invulnerability. The concrete work on the lock is advancing so rapidly that the first double set at Gatun will be completed this coming November, and the engineer in charge has announced that all the concrete in all the locks will be in place two years hence.

The date of final completion and formal opening of the canal to the commerce of the world will be determined by the time consumed in placing the great steel gates, emergency dams and all appliances for operating the docks. But those in charge of the work announce without hesitation that everything will be finished well in advance of Jan. 1, 1915.

Stupendous Achievement.

This is a stupendous record of achievement. As a people we are rather fond of exalting ourselves and sometimes with very great justice, but even the most pessimistic critic should sometimes think of what is to our credit. Among our assets of the past ten years will be placed the extraordinary ability, integrity and success with which we have handled all the problems inherited as the result of the Spanish war, the way we have handled ourselves in the Philippines, in Cuba, in Porto Rico, in San Domingo and in Panama.

The cruise of the battle fleet around the world was a striking proof that we had made good with the navy, and what we have done at Panama represents the accomplishment of one of the great feats of the ages. It is a feat which reflects the highest honor upon our country, and our gratitude is due to every man who has taken an honorable part in any capacity in bringing about its performance.

Fortify the Canal.

We now have a further duty to perform in connection with it, and that is to fortify it. We are in honor bound to fortify it ourselves, and only by so doing can we effectively guarantee its neutrality and, moreover, effectively guarantee that it shall not be used against us.

The chief material advantage—certainly one of the chief material advantages—which we shall gain by its construction is the way in which it will for defensive purposes double the power of the United States navy.

To refuse to fortify it and, above all, to consider for a moment such an act of utter weakness and folly as to invite other nations to step in and guarantee the neutrality of this purely American work (and thereby really to make it certain that in the event of war we should find the canal used against us, as our fleets would be forbidden to pass through it or else our opponents' fleets permitted to) would be to incur, and quite rightfully, the contempt of the world. It would mean the complete abandonment of the Monroe doctrine, it would be a wicked blow to our prestige on the Pacific, and, moreover, it would be in its essence treason to the destiny of the republic.

NOTICE TO TAXPAYERS.

I will begin my assessment September 1 and every taxpayer in the city should not fail to call at my office and give in their property, which enables the assessor to get a true and correct list. The law provides that on failure to do so that a penalty shall be added to the assessed value of said property and the assessment as made this year on all real estate will stand without change for the next four years. Therefore it behooves all taxpayers to be on time in coming to my office and get a correct assessment of his or her property.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

George R. Broadfoot for Coroner. Subject to action of the Democratic ticket.

Governor Deneen is also confronted with an "old Guard."

Evidently there are some hard characters selling soft drinks.

If the king were like another George, we have heard of, he would say, "I cannot tell a lie, I did it with my little blunderbuss."

According to the statement of the committee, those charges before the American Bar association were not against Choate but Inchoate.

The instructions of a gray-haired managing editor to censor referring to men beyond fifty as "venerable," gives rise to the inquiry, what period of life constitutes "middle age?"

Failure of that St. Louis firm, which advertised for an "ugly stenographer," to receive a single application, indicates that the Missouri mirror is not of the "show me" kind.

The subtle ways that are adopted to secure the signatures of Indiana to their deeds and their exposures, proves that the Spencerrism pen method of dealing with the shorthands is not equal to the William Penn method.

Congressman Sibley, of Pennsylvania, charged with political bribery, blames it on his secretary, and says he cautioned his secretary not to use the money corruptly. Evidently, Mr. Sibley has not impressed his secretary with the purity of his character.

Proctor Knott is eighty years old. Who can forget his satirical speech on "Duluth, the zenith city of the unsalted sea," his cheerful allusions to the concentric rings drawn around it on a pictorial map, to show its strategic importance in the trade of the country; and his assertion that Duluth is the exact center of the universe because the earth and sky are seen to meet at an equal distance in every direction from it?

Speaking "scientifically and descriptively" as he avers, former President Theodore Roosevelt in an article in the Outlook says the New York Evening Post lied in what it said about him and the gentleman who wrote the editorial knew it was a lie when he wrote it, which, we take it, imputes some measure of personal responsibility to the writer. Thus one more initiate is added to the Annanias club and that growing association will henceforth have a properly accredited official gazette.

AUGUST HEALTH REPORT

During the month of August the death rate exceeded the birth rate by 13, there being 41 deaths and only 28 births. There were 12 white male, 7 white female, 4 colored male, 5 colored female. The deaths were 11 white male, 10 white female, 15 colored male, 5 colored female. Yet still this is not quite 14 deaths per 1,000. In his report city health officer said: "The city as a whole has responded to our call to clean up. But there are a few individuals who persistently refuse to do their part, and wait for the city and everyone else to do their part instead of each one trying to be the first to clean up. Some want to be the last and some we will have to force to do their plain duty. There have been only four cases of diphtheria, two cases of whooping cough, one case of typhoid fever, two cases of tuberculosis, one case of scarlet fever, reported to this office. However, I am sure that some of the doctors are not complying with the state laws in reporting boast that eventually she will be the metropolis of the world. Only with London can the great American city now be compared in population and variety of interest. London's census will be taken next year, and then we may compare the relative growth of the two cities, though London's area is nearly twice as great as that of Greater New York, which embraces 336 1/2 square miles to London's 692 and a fraction. During the decade between 1891 and 1901 London grew from 5,633,806 to 6,180,616. In the decade from 1901 to 1910 New York grew from 3,595,936 to 4,766,882. At the same ratio of gain London should grow well beyond seven millions next year and in three years more New York should have passed the five million mark in the race for population. The radius embraced by the statistics of London's population would give New York some Jersey suburbs that would add a few hundred thousand to her total; but for density of population, evidently, Little Old Manhattan has it all over London, not a thing, really, to boast of except in finding a handicap to overcome London's lead in the race, but a condition presenting a problem, whose seriousness affects the political, physical and moral welfare of the race.

Postmaster General Hitchcock's annual visit to his friend Ralph Cameron in Arizona has given rise to much speculation. As the general has been spending his vacations there for the last several years, and nothing was thought of it, the coincidence that just now Arizona is in the transition stage from a territory to a state, adds no significance to the custom.

WORD WASTING.

There are about as many words wasted on the tariff as there are on conservation. People say they want the tariff reduced, who couldn't name a single schedule in the Payne law. They can't possibly want all the schedules reduced, because some articles are on the free list. They cannot possibly prove that a single schedule is too high; because they haven't the unbiased facts in their possession. The Democrats cannot honestly promise that they will reduce the tariff, if they secure a majority in congress; because a majority of their members in the last congress, nearly all of whom are holdovers or certain to be re-elected, voted for excessively high rates on certain products of their states or districts. The only information on the subject available comes from those who are personally and financially interested in the schedule, and their testimony is not unprejudiced. The Payne law, lowered most of the schedules; it is bringing in more revenue than any of its predecessors, and no one can say it is higher than the Dingley or McKinley bills. The president has a committee of experts at work securing data on which a fair revision can be made. Not a single fair-minded person can deny that this is the only practicable and equitable way of revising the tariff. Then, what is the advantage of wasting words about the tariff now, when we know it cannot be properly revised? Why not wait until we get this commission's report within the next two years, and after informing ourselves on the subject, demand of Democrats and Republicans alike in congress fair treatment of the consumer, manufacturer, producer and wage earner? Business conditions already are feeling the deadening effect of anticipated tariff tinkering.

STATE PRESS.

McCrearyites Back Up.
The Courier-Journal in giving an account of Senator McCreary's speech at Mt. Sterling quoted him as saying that he was for Governor Harmon for president. The News made some comment upon this in which it indicated that the sage of Richmond had made a blunder in declaring for a candidate for president in making the race for governor. It seems that the Courier-Journal did not quote Senator McCreary correctly. He said that Governor Harmon all contagious diseases to the health officer. The law also requires the heads of the families to report all such cases to the health officer, and it is determined that this shall cease as it is impossible for me to do my duty unless these reports are made regularly.

"I am determined to protect the unsuspecting citizen from contagion in every form, so far as it is in my power to do so. The inspectors have been kept very busy this month and I must compliment them on doing their duty well. In fact the whole sanitary force have done their duty and their reports are submitted in full to this office. I call on the patrons of the schools to have their children vaccinated before it opens, as the state requires each child to be vaccinated before they can be admitted. The school buildings will be disinfected next week and made as clean as possible, and if all parties concerned will work together it will be an easy task to prevent contagion of any kind in the schools."

had been elected by 19,000 majority when Mr. Taft carried the state by 62,000 and that if elected governor again he will be a prominent candidate for president. What he did say was all right, what he was reported to have said was all wrong. The trouble is that we country editors cannot believe anything published in the Courier-Journal about a candidate that it is not favorable to. At least it looks that way.—Elizabeth-town News.

Socialist Ticket.

There is a strong rumor out that the Socialist party will have a candidate in the field for congress, and also for assessor of Caldwell county, C. L. Horner or I. O. Ford, of Paducah, is talked of as the proposed candidate for congress.—Caldwell News.

Would Be Unwise.

It will be an unwise move for the Democratic committee if it undertakes to urge the election of a state superintendent of public instruction this year. It is true that the committee appointed to examine the law in regard to the matter has reported that such a procedure will be lawful and we have a proper respect for the opinion thus rendered. On the other hand the attorney general, acting for the state, has rendered an opinion that the present superintendent, appointed to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Professor Crabbe, can hold the office the remainder of the term.

Heard in the Lobby

Prof. Hugh H. Craig, teacher of science in the High school, has arrived in Paducah from his home in Pennsylvania for the school year. Professor Craig is also director of athletics of the High school, and is on the ground to make a survey of the football situation. The High school has splendid material for a football team this year, and it is expected that the eleven will be one of the best.

A Paducah boy was a hero at the wreck of the Grand Trunk passenger train at Durand, Mich., last week in rendering first aid to the injured. He was Mr. Henry Cave, who with Mr. Robert Wallace, of Paducah, were passengers on the train but were not in the ill-fated coaches. In a few minutes after the crash the injured cried for help, and it was some time before the railroad officials could reach medical aid to the wreck. Mr. Cave is a medical student at the Johns Hopkins university, and lost no time in rendering every aid possible to the injured passengers. Only one doctor was aboard the train, and he and Mr. Cave did splendid service until the hospital corps arrived. Mr. Cave reduced the fractures of numerous persons, and found it valuable experience in connection with his vocation.

Ethel had been visiting at a neighbor's. "I hope you didn't take a second piece of cake Ethel?" said her mother. "Yes, I did, mother," replied the child. "You told me never to contradict, and the lady said, 'I know you'll have another piece of cake,' so what could I say?"—Judge.

Vags Are Driven Out.

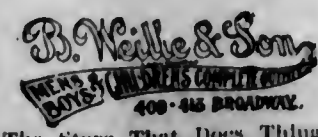

Second street and Kentucky avenue, the mecca of roustabouts, was swept clean yesterday afternoon of vagrants by Patrolmen Stewart and England under orders of Chief of Police Henry Singery. Chief Singery discovered that the vags were so thick that it was impossible to drive by the street much less walk on the sidewalk. The word soon spread, and what the police did not get, ran away. Many were fined this morning in police court, and the old familiar corner will look like the deserted village for some time.

BREAKS PIGEONS

AMATEUR SHOT ESTABLISHES A WORLD'S RECORD.

Dan O'Connell's Former Record of 300 Birds Went Down Early —Illinois Boy Marvel.

Chicago, Sept. 2.—Jay R. Graham, of Long Lake, Ill., broke the world's amateur target record when he went out with 417 straight at the final day's shoot of the Grand Chicago handicap tournament at the grounds of the Chicago Gun club. Graham really broke 432 targets without a miss, but 15 of these are eliminated because they did not come on the program. He got nine unfinished on Monday in practice and he broke six this morning in tuning up for the contest.

It was the unlucky 13 bird in the eighth event today which got away from the eagle eye of the great wing shot. He had gone seven events of 15 targets each without a miss, giving him 105 straight. He started on the eighth event with 12 straight. The thirteenth was a left quartering disc which took an extra jump just as Graham pulled the trigger and he shot under it. Graham finished up this event and the one following without a miss.

The former amateur mark was 366, held by Dan O'Connell, of San Antonio, Texas, and made recently in a registered Texas shoot.

Perhaps, the most satisfactory bill the Star has yet presented is on for tonight and tomorrow. It affords greater variety as well as greater merit than usual. Besides Frank Long's singing and the pictures, Master Watkins' educated pony, presenting features in animal training nowhere else witnessed, opens the bill. The pony goes through his performance almost without prompting, and the act lacks the show of force and activity on the part of the trainer, so distracting in dress performance. With & Collins are top liners with a comedy sketch way above the ordinary. Their sketch is clean, clear, thorough and both are actors of exceptional ability. Billy Boyd is a clever black face comedian, and after cutting out one joke, his monologue is not only original and funny, but it is clean.

DECATUR HARB NEW TESTAMENT

Book No Longer to Have Place in School Libraries.

Decatur, Ill., Sept. 2.—Decatur's school board decided to include the New Testament in the school libraries no longer. The state supreme court had handed down a decision in which it was held unlawful to give religious instruction in the public schools. Decatur decided to appeal to F. G. Blair, state superintendent of public instruction. His advice came back swiftly that to have a New Testament in the public schools is against the law, as some one is likely to read it.

EMERGENCY MONEY.

MacVeigh Shows That Banks Can Put $500,000,000.

Washington, Sept. 2.—Secretary MacVeigh's ruling on the term "commercial paper" in the treasury department's interpretation of emergency currency law, became known in full import today. The way is clear for the banks to put into circulation $500,000,000 emergency money at the first dawn of stringency. The law provides that commercial paper upon which emergency paper may be issued shall include only notes representing actual commercial transactions, which bear the names of at least two responsible persons, and have not more than four months to run. A large proportion of the banks hold notes which are bought from bankers. The notes bear only the name of the maker.

MacVeigh has decided that the endorsement of the holding bank upon such notes will constitute the second endorsement the law calls for. MacVeigh holds that notes issued by reputable persons for carrying on of bona fide business and discounted at the bank, represent actual transactions and are distinct from what is known as accommodation paper. The latter is strictly barred as emergency currency.

SOCIALIST SENATOR IS CAUSTIC

Gaylord Comments on Roosevelt-Schickel Affair in Milwaukee.

Milwaukee, Sept. 2.—Senator Gaylord today issued a statement in regard to the Roosevelt-Schickel controversy, and said in part:

"Of course, it is too bad that the Press club, made up mainly of good fellows on the whole, happens to have arranged for the reception to Roosevelt after the people of Milwaukee elected a Socialist administration, thereby giving the lie direct to what this same private citizen has said about Socialists in general. Since the members of the Press club were good enough to include me in their invitation, it may be worth while for me to reveal that famous article in the Outlook of March 27, 1909. It puts the Press club in a hard position, as best of a guest who has deliberately slandered about 21,000 of the citizens of Milwaukee.

"The Press club must understand that these men do not look to any handshake with Roosevelt for a verification of their credentials as decent citizens."

LAV MATRIMONIAL FRAUD TO 3.

Postoffice Inspector Arrest Women and Men in Wisconsin.

La Crosse, Wis., Sept. 2.—Postoffice inspectors have unearthed an alleged matrimonial bureau scheme at Richland Center, a village near here, by means of which they charge, hundreds of farmers throughout the northwest have been swindled out of a great sum. George Chase and two women whose names are withheld, have been arrested and held to await the action of the federal grand jury in October. Postoffice Inspector E. E. Fraser, who was here today, charges that the women started the bureau and advertised for husbands. Chase is alleged to have been called in to manage the business when it grew to large proportions. One reputed victim, who is said to have sent money from Alden, N. D., to pay the railroad fare of his prospective wife, grew suspicious, according to Fraser, and gave the postoffice inspectors the tip which resulted in the arrests.

ROTHSCHILD HEIRS LOSE SUIT.

Detroit, Sept. 2.—Judge Donovan, in circuit court today, decided that former Postmaster General Dickinson is still in possession of his faculties and able to attend to business. The case was that of Sigmund Rothschild heirs to set aside his trusteeship and divide the property, consisting principally of eleven quarter sections of very valuable mining lands in Carraquette county. Mr. Dickinson has been trustee since 1888. The Rothschild heirs alleged incompetent management due to advancing age. The court found nothing in the testimony to sustain the claim. The court also refused to terminate the lease of the Bird Mining company on the property of Mr. Dickinson's allocation of a plot to sell it at an inadequate figure.

TREASURY STATEMENT SHOWS $17,371,108.08 DEFICIT.

Increase in Debt Due Largely to Excess of National Bank Deposits.

Washington, Sept. 2.—With an increase of $3,273,325 in the public debt and a total deficit of $17,371,108.08, the United States treasury closed the second month of the fiscal year, keeping on an even keel, all circumstances considered, with a working balance of $30,826,057.23 on hand and the general fund down to $89,523,207.59.

The increase in public debt, which is a complete turnover of four millions, in round numbers, from the month of July, is due largely to an excess of national bank deposits over redemptions. The general rule of excess of expenditures over receipts during July and August is also a contributor.

Those who have observed closely the fluctuations of the working balance during the last month affect to find satisfaction in that it is a shade better than at the close of July, even if there has been a drop of approximately three millions in the general fund. The deficit, too, of $17,060,000 is a round ten millions under what it was a year ago at this time, and a progressive condition is apparent in the comparison of receipts and disbursements with those of this date in the last fiscal year.

Receipts and Expenses.
Total receipts in the month of August were $5,969,355.64, roughly five millions more than for the same month last year. This brings the receipts of this year over the $112,000,000 mark and five millions better than those of the preceding year.

SUIT FOR SEDITION.

Coal Operators Start Unique Litigation Against Miners.

Pittsburgh, Sept. 2.—Attorneys for the coal operators who have filed suit against the miners in the Irwin-Westmoreland coal fields, charging conspiracy in preaching sedition against laws of the state and nation, declare these suits to be the first of their kind to be filed in the United States.

The legal action is the outcome of the strike being waged against the plaintiff companies by several thousand miners in the Irwin-Westmoreland field.

The nearest approach to the proceedings taken by the Western Pennsylvania operators, it is said, was the recent action of the New York hat manufacturers, who sued the hatsters' union for damages when the union declared them to be on the "unfair" list. The manufacturers were awarded $250,000 damages.

CZAR VISITS BATHS.

Walks Through Streets Accompanied by Two Adjutants.

Nauheim, Sept. 2.—Emperor Nicholas motored over from Friedberg today and visited this resort of baths in the most democratic fashion. His majesty left his automobile outside the town and walked in unaccompanied by two adjutants. As the party passed through the streets large crowds gathered and hailed the emperor, who returned their salutations. He visited various objects of interest and later had coffee in a public cafe.

While here the Russian monarch exhibited not the least nervousness, though it was probably the first time in some years that he had come so closely and freely in contact with the public.

I. C. OFFICIALS WERE INTERESTED

NEW CHARGE AGAINST HARRIMAN TAYLOR AND EWING.

All Memphis Bills Were Sent to the Ostrermand and Then Padded to the Limit.

HOW BILLS WERE PREPARED

Chicago, Sept. 2.—The case against Frank B. Harriman, John M. Taylor and Charles L. Ewing, former Illinois Central railroad officials, charged with conspiracy in connection with the Illinois Central car repair frauds, took an unexpected turn in Judge Bruggermeyer's court.

Counsel for the railroad company declared that efforts were being made to connect the defendants with the Memphis Car company, one of the concerns charged with extensive repair frauds against the Illinois Central. The railroad's lawyers said they considered evidence given today by Clarence H. Polley, formerly chief clerk for the Ostrermand Manufacturing company, as indicating that such a connection had existed.

Polley, as on yesterday, was the chief witness in the hearing for the prosecution. His testimony at certain points was startling, particularly when he declared that he had written out several $1,000 currency checks for certain Illinois Central officials by order of Henry C. Ostermann.

Made Currency Checks.

Attorney Walter L. Fisher, chief counsel for the railroad company, met with repeated objections upon the part of counsel for the defense while the examination of Polley was going on. In nearly every instance, however, the court ruled that the witness should answer the questions.

"Did you ever make out any currency checks?" Polley was asked.

"Yes, in 1907 and 1908."

"For what amount?"

"One thousand dollars."

"Under whose instructions did you make out these currency checks?"

"Under the instructions of Henry C. Ostermann. He told me that the officials down at Twelfth street—

Illinois Central officials—wanted stock. He said if they want the stock they would have to pay for it. Later he told me the matter was fixed up and for me to make out currency checks. I made out a number of these checks."

Interested in Memphis Company.

"To what account were they charged?"

"To the management and expense account," Polley replied.

"Did you ever go to Memphis while you were employed by the Ostermann company?" asked Attorney Fisher.

"Yes," said Polley, "in the summer of 1908."

"Under whose instructions?"

"Mr. Ostermann told me to go over the books of the Memphis company with Breakey, who had charge of the Memphis office, and straighten them out."

"Was Ostermann interested in the Memphis company?"

"Yes, he was."

"Did you ever have anything to do with making out bills from the Memphis Car company against the Illinois Central?"

"Yes."

"Did you have instructions?"

"Yes, Ostermann told me to change some of the Memphis bills and to fill in others that bore only car numbers."

Filled Blank Bills.

The witness said many of these bills were blank documents, and Polley admitted that he made them out against the Illinois Central for supposed car repairs at Memphis that were never furnished.

"Polley then testified that the Memphis blank bills were sent from the South to the Ostermann company in 'bunches.'"

"How did you put materials in these bills?" Polley was asked.

"I used my own judgment in doing that," the witness replied and spectators in the courtroom laughed.

"How did you know what amounts to fill in?"

"Ostermann said they were using the same average in Memphis as to the rate or cost for repairs."

"Do you remember a man by the name of Lundberg?"

"Yes. He was employed as a checker for the Illinois Central at the Ostermann plant."

Money from Company.

"Did he receive any money from

DON'T STAY IN THE HOUSE.

Unightly Skin Eruptions Which Cause Embarrassment Are Quickly Cured by Poslam.

"To tell the truth, I was ashamed to go out," says Mrs. John Rogers, of Atlanta, Ga. "My trouble was eczema on each side of my nose and caused lots of trouble and expense. I used every preparation I could get hold of but they all seemed to make it worse until I tried Poslam. I can truly say that every trace of it has disappeared and does not seem to return. Poslam is a wonderful remedy. I keep some at hand all the time."

The success of poslam is not at all surprising when it is considered that even a small quantity stops itching immediately and proceeds to heal at once. The very worst cases of eczema, as well as acne, herpes, tetter, itches, salt rheum, rash, crusted humors, sealy scalp and every form of itch yield to it readily. Remedies such as plimber, red noses, muddy or inflamed skin disappear, the complexion being cleared overnight.

A special 50-cent package of poslam is prepared for minor uses and this, as well as the regular $2 jar is on sale by all druggists, particularly Gilbert's Drug Store and R. W. Walker & Co's.

A sample of poslam, which will afford a convincing test, will be sent by mail, free of charge, to anyone who will write to the Emergency Laboratories, 32 West 25th street, New York city.

the Ostermann company?"

"Yes. He made some trouble about several accounts, and so I put a $20 bank note among a budget of car bills. At other times I put $5 or $10 among repair bills for him."

"Where did you get this money?"

"I got it from Henderson, the bookkeeper."

Surprise was evident in the courtroom when Polley was shown a paper which he identified as a letter which he said he received at his home in Sierra Madre, Cal., in May of this year, from Ostermann.

Attorney Fisher then read the letter to the court. In part, it was as follows:

He Urged Silence.

"As I have learned that you intend returning to Chicago for the purpose of going to the I. C. to inform them as to our methods of filling at the West Pullman plant, I take this opportunity to advise you that you hold your penell, as they are making every effort to get statements (stopping at nothing) from former and present employees. I wish to advise that up to the present time no one of us has given them information of any kind, and should you be approached by anyone I wish you would advise me. Let me hear from you by registered mail without fail."

"HENRY C. OSTERMANN."

Just before court adjourned for the day it was announced by counsel for the railroad company that other former employees of the Ostermann Manufacturing company would probably be placed on the witness stand tomorrow.

WOODMEN OF WORLD

HOLD INTERESTING MEETING AT WALLACE PARK.

Threatening Weather Keeps Many From Attending The Rally.

Inclement weather prevented a large attendance last night at the rally and reunion of the Woodmen of the World at Wallace park. The drizzle about 8 o'clock prevented many people even in the city attending, but at the park the loss in members was made up in enthusiasm. Considering the weather a splendid crowd was present. The steamer Cowling brought in a full sized crowd from Metropolis at 8 o'clock.

The reunion was for the purpose of arousing interest in the large class of 6,000 that will be initiated in Louisville October 23. The record of the lodge is a class of 5,600, but this year the mark has been set at 6,000. The reunions are being held over seven states, and there is every assurance of the number being reached. Last night Col. J. H. Brewer, state manager, of Louisville, and Hon. Rainey T. Wells, state counsel, of Murray, delivered addresses on the work of the order. Their addresses were informal, but were of great interest to the members of Woodcraft as well as to the visitors present.

Company H, winners of the prizes at the Union City encampment, was present. Owing to the weather the drill was held on the stage of the Casino theater. The lack of room handicapped the team, but some of the best formations were made. The team is composed of: Pete Blasingame, captain; Will Copeland, Jonah Brown, Albert Hooper, Charley Weatherford, Larver Hergae, Hardin Rule, Roy Hamlet, Jess Wright, Claude Seal, Ernie Coffey, Brooks Webb, Paul George, Henry Willett, Ned Dowdy, Vernon Howard and Lawrence Shelton.

PREFERS NAME "PROGRESSIVE"

ALTHOUGH ROOSEVELT DECLARES HIMSELF INSURGENT.

Honesty In Government Was Theme of Main Speech—Talked to School Children.

AFRICA THERE DISCUSSED.

Kansas City, Sept. 2.—The people have kept up the welcome to Roosevelt everywhere in his wanderings through the west. The colonel told them he is an insurgent through and through, but he said it would be better to call him a progressive. Members of the Commercial club, which was entertaining him, cheered his definition of his political status. It was raining hard when he arrived at Kansas City, Kan.

After a parade and luncheon the colonel went to Westport high school and talked to the pupils. He then made a speech at the auditorium.

The speech was about honesty in public and private life.

The colonel was cheered continuously. At the school house the colonel told the pupils some stories of Africa and talked about lions. He said:

"When they were building the rail road construction was stopped two weeks because two lions ate up all the men. I think they ate about 100."

The children liked the colonel's stories and did not want him to stop.

Roosevelt's speech at Convention hall here last night was the principal address of the day. He said honesty should not be made a party matter, and that the first man to attack a scandal should be a man in the second's own party. He spoke of corruption in New York, Missouri, Illinois, California, and said the duty of the people was to war with equal sternness against the corrupt man of great wealth and the small man who makes a trade of corruption.

He advocated the enactment of a federal workmen's compensation act.

At the Commercial club 300 attended the luncheon, among the guests were Gov. Hadley, of Missouri, Gifford Pinchot, James R. Garfield, Col. W. R. Nelson and Senator Stone. Roosevelt left for Omaha last night.

"There are certain matters which should never be treated as party matters; and foremost among these is the great and vital virtue of honesty. Honesty should be treated as a prime necessity to our success as a nation. The minute that a question of honesty as against dishonesty is involved then we must all act together as Americans, without the slightest regard to party affiliations. Honesty is not a party matter; and the first man to attack a scandal of any party should be the honest man of that party."

"Remember that honesty cannot be unilateral. Good citizens should cordially distrust the man who can never see dishonesty excepting in men of the class he dislikes. The reckless agitator who invariably sings out new of wealth as furnishing the only examples of dishonesty; and the equally unscrupulous—but no more unscrupulous—reactionary who can see dishonesty only in a black-malling politician or a crooked labor leader; both stand on the same plane of obnoxiousness. You will never get honesty from politicians until you exact honesty from business men; on the other hand, you brand yourselves as fools or as hypocrites if you say that the corporation owner, or the employer, is always the dishonest man; and the poor man never, that it is only the wealthy man who corrupts the politician and never the politician who blackmails the corporation."

Corporation Bribery.

"Any man in his senses knows that there are plenty of corporations in this country who prosper by bribing legislatures just as they prosper by swindling the public; and any man in his senses ought to know, in addition, that there are plenty of corrupt men of small means who, in legislative or other bodies, try to blackmail other people as well. If they doubt this, let them look at the revelations of corruption in my own state—New York—and in yours, my hearers—here in Missouri; let them look at what has occurred in California and what has occurred in Illinois. In Illinois, for instance, one of the races developed by the recent investigation was the existence of a combination of legislators who black-mailed fishermen along certain rivers forcing them to pay to prevent legislation which would have interfered with their business."

Blackmailers.

"Now scoundrels who do these kinds of things are, of course, the very men who, on the one hand, will blackmail a corporation. If they get a chance, and on the other hand, will cheerfully, if the chance occurs, sell themselves to that corporation against the interests of the public. Their corruption is no more due to the action of the corporation than the corruption of the corporation is due to their action; and evil, and not good, is done by the honest and misguided man who would persuade you that either fact is true. Our duty is to war with equal sternness against the corrupt man of great wealth and the small man who makes a trade of corruption; our fight is against both the swindling corporation and the blackmailing or bribe-taking politician."

Make No Distinctions.

"We cannot afford to limit a campaign against corruption to those who happen to have a certain social status. We need laws which shall put the corporation out of business, so far as concerns corrupting the servants of the public and betraying the rights of the public. I believe that the great issue now before the people is the doing away with special privileges in all its forms, doing away with the power of the big corporations to control legislation in its interests and to interfere in politics in order to secure privileges to which it is not entitled. But I regard the essential factor in this campaign as being an aroused civic conscience which will unflinchingly condemn dishonesty in every form, and in every man, high or low. The reckless would-be reformer, who, in speaking or writing, seeks to persuade us that we need pay heed to corruption and only when it shows itself in the rich man, is doing as great a moral wrong as the rich man whose low moral standard tends to lower the moral standard of the whole community. The people of this country will get justice from the corporations only if they both do justice to them and rigidly exact it from them. Unless they do justice to rich men, they put a premium upon justice and dishonesty among rich men. Let us hold them to the strictest accountability for any wrong-doing; but let us hold upon honesty in our own ranks, no less than theirs; let us war on crookedness of every kind in the man of small means as well as the man of large means. Let us judge each man by his conduct, and not by his social or financial condition."

The Ruling Passion.

An ambitious barber, having improved his idle moments by studying graduated in that profession, opened an office and waited for patients. The first one had appendicitis. Doffly the surgeon performed the operation, then, after the patient had recovered from the effect of the anesthetic, inquired: "Won't you have your leg cut off today, sir? Looks as if it needed it."—Cleveland Leader.

Rubbing out the Hairs by Thousands

Every time you wash your head—
Every time you brush your hair—
Every time you comb it—
Out they come—Roots and all.

And no matter how much hair you may have NOW you dare not let it continue. It means baldness in the end. It may be a year—it may be two years but baldness is sure unless you stop this falling hair.

And you must rub now. After the bath is all gone it is best to rub. You cannot make the hair grow where the roots have died.

WHAT ARE YOU GOING TO DO ABOUT IT? Are you going to wait? Are you going to rub some hair tonic with a few drops of oil? Or are you going to use a time-proven treatment? A treatment that is backed up by the unqualified experience of the specialists at the Woodbury Institute? Some people still think that a visit to the Institute is necessary. DON'T MAKE THIS MISTAKE. You can now use this famous treatment right in your own home. You can apply it just the same as it was applied for years for those people who attended the Institute for treatment.

WOODBURY'S COMBINATION Hair and Scalp Treatment

DENEEN'S HOPES

TO CONTROL ILLINOIS REPUBLICAN CONVENTION.

Will Be Called to Order at Springfield, Sept. 23—Jackson Resolution.

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 2.—That Governor Deneen, who opened the primary campaign so vigorously at Taylorville with a broadside fired at the Shurtliff-Lorimer-Brownes Republican combine, intends to control the Republican convention, which meets in Springfield September 23, was known today by his friends.

It is claimed resolutions will be presented to the convention as follows:

That the Republican party of Illinois repudiate the Republicans who refused to go into a caucus in the Fortieth general assembly for the selection of a speaker, and that it further disavows all responsibility for the "jack pot" and condemn all so-called Republicans involved therein.

That it shall be the sense of the Republicans in state convention assembled that any Republican candidate for the legislature who refuses to pledge himself to enter a caucus in the next assembly and abide by the rule of the party in said caucus, is not entitled to the support of the Republican party in the election.

The RING and the MAN

WITH SOME INCIDENTAL RELATION TO THE WOMAN
BY CYRUS TOWNSEND BRADY
ILLUSTRATIONS BY DEARBORN ILLUSTRATORS

CHAPTER II.

The Devotion of Mr. Gormly.
The relationship of Miss Haldane and Gormly was all very well so far as it went, but it did not go far enough for the man's purpose at least; and Gormly was shrewd enough to see that things might run out without any definite results in this way forever. Since the beginning of the acquaintance Gormly had kept track of Miss Haldane through a clipping bureau. Instance of his practical common sense which may amuse the romantic reader. He had neither the time nor the inclination to search the journals in which were chronicled the doings of social New York—in which the Haldane name was prominent; so he instructed his private secretary, Chaloner, upon whose discretion he could rely, to have sent to him at his private address all clippings relating to Miss Haldane. Gormly, therefore, knew the life of the object of his attention as well as it could be known from its outward and visible presentation before the public. Indeed, there was little that was concealable under such circumstances—the higher you rise the less privacy you have, obscurity being the prerogative, or the penalty, of the humble—so that he was entirely aware of Miss Haldane's goings and comings, who her friends were, what houses she visited, what diversions she affected, who paid her attention, and so on.

Meanwhile the man did not neglect his business—nothing would ever make him do that—but he divided his time between it and the young woman—which was a great concession to her influence. One reason why he had become such an assiduous student of the clippings was because he wanted to know whether Miss Haldane was, or was likely to be, engaged, to be married. His apprehensions on that score were soon set at rest. It was Miss Haldane's second season. She had created an instant furore when she had been launched in society the year before.

Then and There He Determined to Marry Miss Haldane.

fore. The usual contingent of impetuous foreigners had promptly laid their coronets at her feet; but it was quite evident that none of them had found favor in her eyes, and that she was still free. He would enter it, he decided; but how?

First of all, something must be done to bring Gormly himself into the public eye in some other capacity, some higher capacity, some more attractive capacity, than that of a mere retailer of ribbons, so to speak; the public eye for Gormly being Miss Haldane's liquid orb. And Gormly knew that the way to private consideration is more often than not through public interest. He had to do something to justify himself, therefore, to make himself known in some enviable way; in short, he determined to make himself worthy of her. And again the question arose; but how?

He had thought vaguely of the racing game, of the most magnificent of vices, of the fastest string of automobiles, of a thousand similar things which he had dismissed as unworthy of his high purpose and inadequate to his end; until finally, fortune favoring him, he hit upon the field of politics. Miss Haldane in some of those now rather frequent conferences, had casually enough remarked that she liked men who did things, who really accomplished something for good in this world.

Gormly instantly resolved to do something. Now if any man really wants to accomplish good in this world, there are few opportunities of greater possibilities than those presented in the political arena. There is also no field in which it is harder to accomplish the end. Gormly as a political force was entirely unknown. He was without experience. One requisite, popularly considered vital, he had, and that was an abundance of money. Another requisite he possessed albeit unwittingly, was character. And still a third was his, and that was imagination coupled with capacity—the ideal and the real; the dreamer and the practical man in one! An irresistible combination that!

Fortune was further kind to him, however, for concurrently with his decision she presented him with an opening. Gormly's business was sufficiently great to have enabled him to extend it in several directions. He brought Ireland, England, France, Germany, Holland, Spain, Italy, and the Orient into New York bay and unloaded them in his great institution. He had conceived, some dozen years before after paying tremendous freight charges, the propriety of establishing his own line of freight steamers. It had amused him to combine the practice with the custom of the modern one. Since the beginning of the acquaintance Gormly had kept track of Miss Haldane through a clipping bureau. Instance of his practical common sense which may amuse the romantic reader. He had neither the time nor the inclination to search the journals in which were chronicled the doings of social New York—in which the Haldane name was prominent; so he instructed his private secretary, Chaloner, upon whose discretion he could rely, to have sent to him at his private address all clippings relating to Miss Haldane. Gormly, therefore, knew the life of the object of his attention as well as it could be known from its outward and visible presentation before the public. Indeed, there was little that was concealable under such circumstances—the higher you rise the less privacy you have, obscurity being the prerogative, or the penalty, of the humble—so that he was entirely aware of Miss Haldane's goings and comings, who her friends were, what houses she visited, what diversions she affected, who paid her attention, and so on.

The purchase of the freight line had with it a lease of one of the piers in the North river. This lease had run out the year before. He had therefore availed himself of what he conceived to be an excellent opportunity of subleasing another pier in the East river. The city had just completed an elaborate railroad, surface and subway, for the transportation of heavy freight from the water front to the great mercantile establishments inland. This system had been leased to the Gotham Freight Traction company, a vast corporation with a full set of ostensible promoters and directors, but which had back of it powers and persons unknown to the general public, carefully concealed from it in fact.

The corporation had not been formed to promote the health of its members. Therefore when Gormly applied to the authorities for permission to construct a switch from his pier on the one hand and his warehouse near the river front on the other to connect both with this subway, the permission was instantly granted, but coupled with an expense demand upon him for something like a million dollars.

Gormly could give Miss Haldane a million dollars to play with; he would not spend ten cents for bribery. He saw instantly that the demand upon him was a mere attempt to hold him out. To build the switch would cost perhaps forty or fifty thousand dollars; the privilege might be worth as much more; but inasmuch as no streets were crossed, no overhead traffic hindered, he was doubtful even as to that. The road had been built by private capital—subscribed by the people—on a public franchise. The interests of the public were supposed to be paramount. A reasonable return upon their investment was all that the promoters had a right to expect.

Gormly had consulted his attorneys, had appealed to the city council, and had done everything that he could to settle the matter short of publishing the whole affair. He had failed absolutely everywhere. The members of the transportation committee of the board of aldermen were very sorry, but they did not see what could be done. A gentle hint that Gormly might prefer to indemnify the aldermen for their trouble in case they should give him permission was met with palmed silence or explosive wrath. It was furthermore pointed out to him that the board had no power, the rights of the people having been vested in the corporation for a ninety-nine year period. It was too bad that the innocent aldermen had allowed themselves to be placed in such a unfortunate position; but so it was—and there you were. There was no help for the matter, and Gormly's only resource was to pay the money, unless he wanted to unload his goods into truck wagons and vans and carts them all over the city. Of course he could do this; but it would be much easier, more profitable and more desirable in every way if he had the right to run cars out on the pier alongside of the vessels of his fleet and transport the merchandise in bulk in that way.

He was in a very desperate situation. Here he was saddled with a twenty-five-year lease of one of the most expensive piers in New York; here he had a great warehouse six blocks or more away from the pier; here he had also a vast store several miles from the warehouse; here was a railroad that practically connected all three, provided one or two little spurs or switches could be built from pier to railroad, and from warehouse to railroad. It was perhaps the one mistake that he had made in his business career not to have arranged matters before all this came to a climax. The railroad people meant to make him pay. They were resolved that he should; he was equally determined that he would not.

He was not alone in his position, however; for it was found on all sides—he discovered it by making quiet inquiries—that other shippers and merchants seeking similar privileges were being held up in the same way. The road had proved enormously expensive to build; the stock had been watered unmercifully. Contracts which had been entered into for the construction of switches were found to be of little value; means were available to break them and evade them, and the whole water front of New York found itself practically helpless in the grasp of this octopus of a corporation.

There had been no clamor in the papers over this matter; but there was a tremendous undercurrent of resentment and dissatisfaction, and Gormly thought he saw an opportunity of turning it to his own account. To expose the iniquitous methods of procedure of the Gotham Freight Traction company, to bring about its ruin or its downfall by depriving it of the franchise it was abusing, to safeguard the people in their rights in any further grants, was certainly an object sufficiently high and sufficiently vast to attract the attention, and, should he succeed, to awaken the admiration of any being. And Gormly himself without losing sight of Miss Haldane began to look at the possibilities from a high and noble point of view, in which self-interest took a secondary position.

Therefore, late in November he came boldly out in the open, and over his own name vigorously attacked the Gotham Freight Traction company. He did it in a unique way, too. Instead of the full page advertisement of Gormly's story which appeared simultaneously in all the great dailies, there was presented one morning in clear, direct, businesslike English a statement of the whole situation exactly as it was. There were no threats, no menaces, no intimations of any future plan or purpose; just a blunt statement of facts printed in large double-headed type, and signed with the familiar facsimile of his now famous autograph.

The thing was an instant sensation. The newspapers took it up. Other merchants, freighters, and shippers were interviewed, and a case was instantly made out against the Gotham Freight Traction company which would have shaken a less ponderous, less thick-skinned, less indifferent organization to pieces. Even the authorities were interviewed, and they shed hypocritical tears over the unfortunate trickery by which the public had been bamboozled out of its legitimate rights, but they took occasion at the same time to point out that there was nothing whatever to be done about it.

The party in power was one that had long dominated the metropolis. To be sure it gave the metropolis a fairly good government; but the people paid over and over again. They were robbed shamelessly right and left, on every hand, and while something was tendered them, what they got was no quid pro quo for the faithful extravagance of the administration. Graft abounded everywhere. The party out of power, which had been out of power so long that it had become virtuous, did not hesitate to point out the dreadful state of affairs to all who would listen; but its efforts had so far been unavailing, and the party in power remained there because of its so doing.

Now the Gotham Freight Traction company had its weak point. Things that depend upon the collusion of so many unscrupulous men, set to say villains, usually have a weak point. It is a wise man, indeed a genius, who finds out these things and assails the organization thereat. The first principle of good soldiering is to oppose to your adversary's weak point your own strongest. The weak point in the enterprise of the Gotham Freight Traction company lay in a certain link vital to the continuance of the carefully devised system: the franchise of which was about to run out.

Few people knew that the franchise was to expire, and in the ordinary course nothing would have happened. An ordinance renewing it would have been slipped through the board of aldermen, signed by the mayor, and that would have been all.

So sure did the company feel of its ground, so confident were its members that Gormly and his fellow victims would see the necessity of paying without delay, that they had never contemplated this publicity and never imagined they would have to face this bitter and determined attack upon their franchises and upon their methods. They knew, of course, that they held the aldermen in their hands; that in their close alliance with the Sachem society, the organization that ran things, they could pass anything they wanted in defiance of any public sentiment whatsoever.

Gormly had made one blunder; but like a brilliant soldier he had succeeded in turning it to his advantage. One advertisement was succeeded by another. The Gotham Freight Traction company was made the subject of scathing criticism and bitter attack of which the Sachem society and the party in power came in for a large share. And men everywhere began asking what was to be done about it.

In previous campaigns the party out of power had been led by a series of forlorn hopes, men enthusiastic in their devotion to the cause of reform and not noted for much of anything else. The leaders of the outa took notice of Gormly. Inquiries began to be made about him; his business methods were investigated; his resources were discussed; his character was analyzed; his career more the subject of study. From being merely a name attached to a foreign institution, he became within one month one of the great personalities of New York. The situation was intoxicating.

Incidentally, he did not lose in the estimation of Miss Haldane by this exploitation of himself, which he had so cleverly managed that no one dreamed it was due to his own motion. Even in those exclusive circles in which Miss Haldane moved, which are ordinarily indifferent to any happenings on this side of the terrestrial sphere, some account of Gormly and his doings, penetrated. That he was rich and a bachelor were the most interesting facts which appeared to this set. Men and women there began to inquire as to who he was. It was Miss Haldane's privilege and pleasure to enlighten them so far as she could, without betraying the nature of their confidential relation.

There were several papers on the side of the administration, which were owned and controlled by the party in power, that would have been glad indeed to have discredited Gormly; but the closest scrutiny revealed nothing in his life that could be used for that purpose. Where he had come from was not known; but for the last quarter of a century at least his course had been traced with considerable accuracy, and indeed there was little of it that was not discovered and disclosed to the eager public. He was quite willing to talk about the Gotham Freight Traction company or any matter of public moment, but the rest he was unshakably silent. His early past, therefore, was a mystery;

"Tell Them to Come Up by All Means at Once," Said Gormly.

but the interest in a mystery that has no special bearing upon the present soon dies out.

Then Gormly did an unusual thing for him. He purchased a country place on Long Island. This received no mention in the public press, because the whole matter had been handled by the invaluable Chaloner, and Gormly's name had not appeared at all. The place was desirable, in that it was not far—five or six miles—from the country place of the Haldane family. It was bought completely furnished, and the staff of servants previously employed was retained.

Gormly knew from the clipping bureau that it was the custom of the Haldanes to pass the Christmas holidays at their country place. He had seen Miss Haldane rather less frequently of late, because the work at the settlement house was now so far advanced that it was merely a matter of carrying out the plans decided upon and spending the money so generously placed in her hands by him, which did not need much consultation. So, on the vain hope that chance might throw him in touch with her, Gormly decided also to occupy for the Christmas season his lonely cottage—it was called a cottage, although it was more like a baronial mansion than anything else—on the Long Island shore.

It was snowing hard the evening of his arrival the day before Christmas, and Gormly did not like snow. He had bitter memories intermingled with a storm, and the sight of the white, ice covered, snow clad fields filled him with unpleasant reminiscences.

Since he had bought the estate through the faithful Chaloner, he had not seen it himself. Therefore, after the excellent dinner which had been provided by his new chef and served by his new butler, he determined upon a careful inspection of his residence. They had advanced as far as the library when the familiar tinkle of the telephone made them pause.

"See who it is, Beals," said the master of the house.

"It's from the keeper of the lodge gate, sir," he said, turning and looking toward his master. "He says that there's a party down there stalled in an automobile. They can't get on in the snow. They'd like to come up to the house. There are ladies in the party, and—"

"Tell them to come up by all means at once," said Gormly.

"Beg pardon, sir," returned the butler, "but you know it's half a mile by the road, and it'll be terrible walking for the ladies in such weather as this."

"Quite so," returned Gormly. "What does the stable afford?"

"There's the station wagon and the pair that brought you over, sir. Those are all that are there."

"Yes, I remember. That's all I told Chaloner to send down, not expecting to— Well, have that hitched up and telephone them that a conveyance will be at the lodge in a few moments; that I should be glad to have them come to the house at once."

"By the way," he asked, "did you find out the names of the people?"

"Yes, sir," answered the butler, "it was Mr. Haldane and his party."

Anti-Railroad Mania.
Our legislators seem to be afflicted with the anti-railroad mania. Newly elected representatives are seized with it as quickly as some of the old members. The average legislator does not wait for trouble; he looks for it. He carefully canvasses his friends and business acquaintances for any grievance they may have against transportation lines, and if he discovers any prejudice or enmity, however ill-grounded, he immediately delivers the speech or frames the bill that is to make him famous. The motto of our distinguished statesmen appears to be: "When in doubt about producing a political effect, hit the railroads." No wonder we must now go to Europe to raise money. The home investor has been finally frightened or impressed by this constant railroad baiting. It is a mystery where this movement will land the roads, or, rather, it is not a mystery. Auditors of railroads can see the outcome if legislators are not brought back to sanity. If congress would adjourn for five or ten years, the country would arise to permanent prosperity.—E. P. Ripley, in Leslie's.

STATE OF NEW YORK,
COUNTY OF MONROE, ss:
Nancy A. Herrick, being duly sworn, deposes and says: When I was a girl, I had a head of heavy, long dark brown hair which was the envy of my school mates, and which attracted the attention and remarks of strangers. As I grew older, my hair commenced to come out, just a little at first, but gradually more and more, and then began to turn gray. I was induced by the many good reports I had heard of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy to try a bottle. My hair was quite thin and gray when I began using Sage and Sulphur, and you can imagine my satisfaction and surprise when I found that it was fast coming back to its natural condition, being thicker, darker, and more glossy than it had been for a long time. I continued to use Sage and Sulphur, and my hair is now as heavy, dark and smooth as when I was a girl of sixteen. It is now four years since I commenced using Sage and Sulphur, and my hair is still in splendid condition.

Berlin, Sept. 2.—The emperor's annual review of the garrisons of Berlin and Potsdam took place yesterday, the anniversary of the battle of Sedan of 1870, when the German army of 250,000, commanded by William I., overthrew the French under Napoleon III., MacMahon and Wimpfen.
The maneuvers were participated in by 30,000 men of all arms, including the household regiments. The brilliant spectacle was witnessed by a large number of distinguished foreigners.
The American guests were Myron T. Herrick, former governor of Ohio, and Mrs. Herrick; Henry W. Taft and Mrs. Taft; Maj. Frederick S. Foltz, Capt. Samuel G. Roebenbach, Capt. Arthur L. Canger and the following members of the American

WOODROW WILSON'S ADDRESS

Chattanooga, Tenn., Sept. 2.—Declaring that he regarded corporations as indispensable to modern business enterprises—that they do not do wrong—but the individuals who direct and use them for selfish and illegitimate purposes should be punished as criminals. Woodrow Wilson, president of the Princeton University, delivered an interesting address at the Albert theater before the American bar association. The theater was crowded.

Speaking on the subject, "The Lawyer and the Community," Dr. Wilson deplored the fact that constitutional lawyers have fallen into the back-ground. Society has suffered, he said, because of the creation of a new type of lawyer, the specialist, to whom the general, broad, universal field of law has grown dim.

"Lawyers are not now regarded as the mediators of progress. Society was always ready to be prejudiced against them; now it finds its prejudices confirmed."

As illustrating the great legal questions that demand the thought of learned and experienced lawyers, the speaker discussed at length corporations and the many phases of the question that remain to be judicially settled.

"Corporations do not do wrong," he said. "Individuals do wrong, the individuals who direct and use them for selfish and illegitimate purposes, to the injury of society and the serious curtailment of private rights. You cannot punish corporations. Fines fall upon the wrong persons—upon the stockholders and the customers rather than upon the men who direct the policy of the business. If you dissolve the offending corporation you throw great undertakings out of gear."

After saying that he regarded corporations as indispensable but thought the fiction which treats the corporation as a legal person should be abandoned, he continued: "Many modern corporations wield revenues and command resources which no ancient state possessed and which some modern bodies politic show no approach to in their budget. And these huge industrial organizations we continue to treat as legal persons, as individuals, which we must not think of as consisting of persons within which we despair of enabling the law to pick out anybody in particular to put either its restraint or its command upon. It is childish, it is ridiculous. Society cannot afford to wield the power of thousands without personal responsibility. It cannot afford to let its strongest men be the only men who are inaccessible to the law. We can have corporations, can retain them in unimpaired efficiency, without depriving law of its ancient searching efficiency. Its inexorable mandate that man, not societies, must suffer for wrongs done."

He declared that it was imperative that corporations should be regarded as merely groups of individuals and that the wrongdoers should be singled out and punished. "If business is ever again to be moralized," he said the officer, commission or board which orders an act or originates a policy contrary to the law "is an insurgent against society" and should be punished.

Mr. Wilson suggested that where a corporation is controlled from the outside laws should be devised to reach the offender here, too.

"You will say that in many instances it is not fair to pick out for punishment the particular officer who ordered a thing done, because he really had no freedom in the matter; that he himself is under orders, is a dummy conspicuous from without. I reply that society should permit no man to carry out orders which are against law and public policy, and that if you will put one or two conspicuous dummies in the penitentiary there will be no more dummies for hire."

Concluding he said: "We have settled nothing in our recent reform legislation. That is the reason it is so unsatisfactory and why some prudent and thoughtful men grow tired of it. But that is only another reason for seeking out and finding what will be the happy and successful way of settling our economic interests in order."
